

Employee Advance User Guide

How an employee checks eligibility, applies for an advance, tracks the request, cancels a pending request, and completes repayment.

Audience	Employees applying for a salary/employee advance
Module	HRM / Employee Advance
Purpose	Practical user guide based on the current Employee Advance workflow.

Important: Actual eligibility, limits, interest, approval, and recovery behavior are controlled by the active policy configured by the school.

1. Before You Apply

The system checks your employee profile and the advance policy assigned to your department. Eligibility can depend on completed service months, salary, policy limits, installment limits, and whether another active advance already exists.

Your eligibility view can show your policy, completed service months, basic salary, gross salary, salary basis amount, eligible amount, and whether you can currently apply.

2. When You Can Apply

- Your employee profile must exist and be linked to your login.
- Your department must be assigned.
- An active advance policy must apply to your department.
- You must complete the minimum service period required by the policy.
- If the policy uses BASIC or GROSS salary, the required salary structure must be configured.
- The requested amount must be at least the policy minimum and cannot exceed your eligible amount.
- Requested installments cannot exceed the policy maximum.
- If multiple active advances are not allowed, you must not already have an open advance.

3. How to Apply

Step	Employee Action
1	Open HRM > Advance Requests.
2	Review the eligibility information displayed by the system.
3	Click the action to create/apply for an advance.
4	Enter the requested amount.
5	Choose the requested number of installments.
6	Enter a clear reason for the advance.
7	Submit the request. The system validates all policy limits again on the server.

4. What Happens After Submission

If approval is required, the request starts as PENDING. If the policy does not require approval, a valid request can be auto-approved. The request stores the policy values used at the time of application.

5. Understanding Statuses

Status	Meaning
PENDING	Submitted and waiting for an authorized decision.

Status	Meaning
APPROVED	Approved for the permitted amount/installments.
REJECTED	An authorized user rejected the request.
CANCELLED	The pending request was cancelled.
NOT_DISBURSED	Approved, but payment has not yet been released.
DISBURSED	Approved amount has been released.
NOT_STARTED	Recovery has not started.
RUNNING	Installment recovery is in progress.
COMPLETED	The complete recoverable amount has been recovered/settled.

6. Cancelling or Deleting a Request

A pending request can be cancelled with a cancellation remark. The current UI also restricts deletion to requests in PENDING, REJECTED, or CANCELLED states; approved or disbursed advances are protected from deletion.

7. Installments and Recovery

After disbursement, the system creates the installment schedule from the total recoverable amount and the approved installment count. Each installment tracks due amount, recovered amount, remaining amount, recovery date, status, and remark.

8. Full Settlement / Early Closure

If you want to close the advance before all scheduled installments are recovered, an authorized administrator can perform a Full Settlement. The settlement amount must equal the current outstanding amount. Pending/partially recovered installments are settled, outstanding becomes zero, and recovery becomes COMPLETED.

9. Applying Again After Completion

A completed advance remains in your history, but it should not block a new application when multiple active advances are disabled. After normal completion or full settlement, you may apply again if you satisfy the current active policy. A new application is checked using the current policy and current eligibility at that time.

10. Simple Example

Eligible amount: 40,000. You request 40,000 in 4 installments. If approved for 40,000 and there is no interest, total recoverable is 40,000 and the schedule is approximately 10,000 per installment. After two installments, 20,000 remains. If the school performs full settlement for the remaining 20,000, the advance becomes COMPLETED. You can later submit a new advance request if the current policy allows it.
